

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The demodulation unit demodulates a received signal. The detection circuit detects the final data contained in a received data stream supplied from the demodulation unit. When detecting the final data, the detection circuit outputs the final data notification signal. The standby period timer sets the standby time in accordance with the final data notification signal output from the detection circuit.